“BE STILL (LET BE) AND KNOW THAT I AM GOD.”

—Psa. 46. 10.

Be still! my soul, let nothing stir
Thee from the sweet repose
Of those who to their God refer
Their joys, and cares, and woes.

Be quiet! why this anxious thought
About thy tangled ways?
God knows them all—He giveth speed,
And He allows delays.

What though He let thee not perform
Some good and loved design!
Thou wouldst not ask Him to conform
His perfect will to thine.

My God! the hearing ear impart,
To hear Thee tell Thy will;
And then bestow the ready heart,
All meekly to fulfil.

ANON.

To all our “Prayer Partners.” We wish you every blessing this Christmas and in the New Year.

"OUR DAY"

DESPITE the difficulties of travel due to the Bus Strike there was a very encouraging attendance of friends at the 37th Annual gatherings. The girls in the "Cambridge Blue" frocks and the sturdy lads in their grey suits, who occupied seats facing the audience made a pleasant picture, and their sweet singing and repetition of Scripture passages were greatly appreciated.

AFTERNOON MEETING

At the afternoon meeting which commenced at 3.30 under the chairmanship of the Rev. Kenneth C. Parkinson, M.A. (the bearer of an honoured name), prayer was offered by the Rev. A. Sears, Pastor of George Lane Baptist Church, in which the meeting was held. The first speaker was Dr. Eric Mathie who gave his medical report, and chose the words in Acts 4. 21. "For all men glorified God for all that which was done" to express all that those who were engaged in the work of the Homes felt as they looked back upon the past year. He said that the health of the children had been remarkably good, while the health of the people of Woodford had been conspicuously bad—an indication indeed that the Lord watched over His own. There had been one case of Tuberculosis, and one case of Chicken Pox, and seven cases of Mumps; and several cases of Influenza, Bronchitis, and Tonsilitis. The doctor expressed his thanks to Miss Hutchin and to the staff for their painstaking efficient help in the nursing of the children, who themselves were the most patient of patients. He referred to the words which he had quoted from the Acts of the Apostles, and pointed out that God did something in response to the faith of two men Peter and John; and the people around were amazed at what had taken place as a result of that faith. The Apostles were men who believed in the God Who answered prayer. How often they could claim to be like Peter in his indiscretion and rashness and failure; but how seldom they could claim to be like him in being thus filled with the Holy Spirit.

"This Home and the events of the past year" said the doctor "is a reminder to us all that we have a God Who is faithful to all His promises." The annual meetings of the Children's Homes were always a stimulus to faith.

Mr. H. White then gave what he picturesquely called "his hike through the year." He said how encouraging it was to see such a fine company of people. They praised God for the sunshine from above, and in their own souls. Thirty-eight years had passed, said Mr. White, since Miss Hutchin and he started the work—his wife joining with them six months later; and they praised God for all the blessings that God had brought to them since that afternoon when they promised Him that they would ask no one but Himself to aid them in the work to which they had put their hands. And now they had gone through all the years without making an appeal to anyone for help, and right up to the present hour all their needs had been wonderfully met.

Turning to the work of the year Mr. White said that they started with 80 children in the Home; sixteen had been added during the year; and twenty had gone out; fifteen, to work; and five had returned to friends whose circumstances had changed; leaving a total in the Home of 76 boys and girls. Since the start of the work 564 children had been helped in life; 488 had gone out into different parts of the world, many of whom were now married with children of their own. They praised God for the mustard seed that was sown in 1899, which had now grown to a tree reaching to the very ends of the earth. Mr. White read several letters that had been received from "old boys and girls" full of appreciation for all that had been done for them while they were under the care of the Home. He also spoke of the kindness of friends in supplying their needs; and told of one lady who met the cost of an Electric Washer. Then there were those who had made themselves responsible for providing boots for the children; and there were also in existence Working parties and Sewing Circles which helped greatly in the clothing of the children. The fish continued to be delivered regularly—112 lbs. per week for twenty-one years. Gifts in money had also been received, one from an old age pensioner, from one labouring among the Pygmies in Africa, from Queensland, Australia, one in memory of Mrs. Barclay, and a "mother's mite" in farthings.

In dealing with the financial side of the work Mr. White said that they started last year with a balance in hand of £18 16s 3d. The income this year had amounted to £1,983, made up of donations, subscriptions, Government Grant, legacies, etc., and the expenditure to £1,780. Leaving a balance in hand of £202 17s. To that they were able to add a sum of £511 4s 10d from their Forward Move account; God had indeed met their every need. Mr. White also stated that since the meeting started a cheque for £50 had been put into his hand, as a thank-offering for the partial restoration to health in answer to prayer of the wife of the giver.

The Rev. Kenneth C. Parkinson, speaking from the chair, said what an honour he felt it to be present. He had attended several annual meetings of the Home, but he had always been in the pew; he did not think then that he would ever occupy the pulpit. His father was always so interested in the work, and anything that he himself could do would most certainly be done. It was a real tonic to attend the meetings, and to hear of all the wonderful things that God had done in answer to the believing prayers of His people. They had much to learn from such a work. Should they not learn to put more trust in God, to ask for more, believing that He would provide all that was necessary. The more they gave the more they received. The Lord honoured those who trusted in Him, and were seeking to do His work in the world. All that they needed God would provide. His congregation of little black boys and girls in Africa knew quite a lot about the work of Mr. White's Homes; and when they knew that someone working among the Pygmies had sent money on its behalf, they would become still more interested. Mr. Parkinson urged the friends present to go away from the meeting and to talk to their friends about the work, because there was nothing like fellowship in such a work.

The Rev. W. H. ROWDEN said: It is always an inspiration to look back and to remember how God has honoured the faith of those who trust Him. The Lord is One Whose word we can absolutely trust; it has never been known to fail.

I want to turn with you to the story of the Marriage at Cana of Galilee, which is recorded for us in John 2. 1-11. and especially to the last verse, "This beginning of miracles did Jesus in Cana of Galilee; and manifested forth His glory." I believe that these meetings are being held for one sole purpose, that of bringing glory to God; and there will be many who will praise God for them to-day. We think of this Marriage at Cana of Galilee, which Jesus beautified by His presence. I believe that God meant that every life should be like a wedding feast from start to finish. I believe that God meant us to be really filled with joy and gladness. And it is gloriously possible for us to enter into this glorious liberty of the children of God. His presence was there at the marriage feast. He is not only the best Man at the wedding; but He is your very best Friend. I have proved how true that is. I have never regretted having given my life to Christ. I am not a bit ashamed of the Gospel of Christ, for "it is the power of God unto salvation to everyone that believeth." I have often wondered why the wine failed. Perhaps it was because of the arrival of some unexpected guests. I wonder what your experience is. Life for you went like a wedding feast; and you were filled with joy; and then the wine of joy failed; it gradually seemed to disappear. We imagine that life is going to be sunshine all along the way; but things happen which are unexpected. There are those sorrows, and disappointments, and temptations, and those persecutions because we stood up for Christ. And because of these things which we never expected, these uninvited guests which we had to receive, we discovered that gradually the joy of life faded away; and the sense of His presence seemed to depart. This is a crisis in life, and something has to be done. You are conscious to-day that this is exactly the spiritual condition in which you find yourself now. I wonder if someone has begun to tell Jesus about it, just as Mary told the Master that "they have no wine." It means that life has lost its sparkle; there is no longer any fragrance about it, no longer any spice in it; it leaves no mark upon the world. "Whatsoever He saith unto you, do it" said Mary to the servants. Jesus Christ becomes the Master of the ceremonies; He assumes authority. Has he been allowed to assume authority in your life? Some good ladies made a mitre for a bishop; they spent much time on it; but the bishop had politely to refuse the acceptance of it. He said, "A mitre stands for authority; and I possess none." If Christ is not Lord of all, He is not Lord at all. What a glorious thing it is to realise that when Christ gives us a word of command it is the vehicle of His power. You cannot compare Christianity with Mohammedanism, or Buddhism. No one has ever said such words as Christ has said; and no one else has ever been able to impart the power to obey His commands as Christ has done. And there stood the six waterpots, the things of common daily use. Six seems to be the number of human imperfection. The servants had often filled them with water. And Christ will ask you to do some apparently irrelevant thing. "Fill the water pots with water," He says. "What has that got to do with it?" you argue. But He knows best. Perhaps

He is saying to you, You get right with that Christian with whom you have fallen out? You pay that bill that you owe. You write that letter of apology. And at this bidding the servants filled the water-pots up to the brim. Yes it must be "up to the brim." We must obey Christ implicitly. No tiny thing must be left unconfessed. And when they had obeyed the command of Christ, the wine was ready to bear to the Governor of the feast, "Draw out now." There was the testing-time; but they believed the word of Jesus, and they were prepared to step out. Are you prepared to tell others what God has done for your soul? Are you prepared to tell out what God has done for you since you believed? You know that when you came to Him you passed from death unto life. The water of monotony was turned into the wine of adventure. Your life once so colourless is now marked red with the blood of Calvary; and wherever you go you leave the marks of the Lord Jesus, because you are bearing about in your body those blessed marks. And the joy and the gladness of it all will grow daily more wonderful. Oh, that we might believe God, that we might enter into all the fulness of life that God has promised.

The Rev. ROLAND FRENCH said: I want to tell you how God used a song. You have all heard of Clara Butt; and if you get hold of the story of her Life I am quite sure that you will be interested in it. Clara started singing as a girl in her father's mission near Bristol; and by and by the discovery was made that she had a wonderful voice. I once sat in the Albert Hall right away in the top gallery; and there I heard and felt the benefit of that wonderful voice as she sang, I think it was from one of the Oratorios. When Clara started going to the Academy of Music she came into contact with a boy named Sam. He had very little ginger about him, but, nevertheless, he was quite a good and clever musician. Years after she left the Academy, and had become famous, she one day thought about Sam, she had lost sight of him, and she tried to trace him. Eventually she found out where he was, and she found him down on his luck; everything was going to pieces. And Clara said, "Now look here, Sam, you must pull yourself together. You can try over some of my songs for me." "No, Clara," he said. "When you are singing it seems as if my soul comes out at my finger tips," so roused and inspired was he by that wonderful gift of God given to that great singer." And she said to him, "Now, why don't you write a song for me, Sam." He had not thought about that; for he had no initiative. So she put the suggestion to him; and it was as a word from God to that broken young man who was in danger of despair. So he went home about half past ten; and he sat down. He must have prayed about it. He decided to write a tune to the old hymn, "Abide with me." He commenced his task in the morning, and in the late afternoon he had finished his song; and he carried it back to Clara; and she sang it, and said, "That will do, Sam. We are having a big concert at Plymouth, and I will try it out there; and you shall come down too." Sam was greatly delighted; and he sat in the gallery of the hall. Then came the time for the song; and Clara with her big heart beating for his brokenness put her whole soul into the singing of that song; and I expect she prayed about it too. When she had finished; there was a dead silence; and poor Sam's heart dropped. The people were transfixed; and then the applause began, and it seemed as if the roof would come off; the people had never heard anything so wonderful before; The Lord used it. When the War came, it was put on the gramophone records, and one day a Christian soldier wrote home from the Front to his mother, and said, "Dear Mother, we have had a rough time of it; but I just put on the record of Clara Butt's "Abide with me" in the trenches; then suddenly there came a shell and killed my chum, and knocked me senseless; but when I came too, Clara was still singing!" So the Lord used it in a very wonderful way.

A little girl was dying of a terrible disease in a home; and she had a very gracious nurse with a wealth of beautiful hair who looked after her, and loved her very much; the child was slowly dying; and one day when the nurse was leaning over her, she said, "When I am really dying I want you to do something for me. I want you to let your hair down, and lean over me, and sing 'Abide with me.' And when the time came, although it was very hard to do, the nurse did it, and she sang that wonderful prayer over the dying child. And the little one was taken to the Saviour's arms away into His Home for safe keeping. God put into the heart of that great singer a pity for other broken lives, and then He put it into the heart of this broken man to write this song, and it helped him, and it has helped tens of thousands of people since.

When the War broke out I was living in Blackheath, and the soldiers used to come down the hill singing "Tipperary." That was a very popular song the first year that the War broke out. But as the War went on, there was no song. There was nothing in it to help the spirit of those men; they had grown tired; they knew that they were going out to face death. We need something infinitely more than a mere song if we are to face life worthily. You know that "Abide with me" was written by a dying man. It was written by a Vicar who could not live in England during the winter because of lung trouble, and he had to go to the South of France. He prayed for a long time that he might write a hymn that would live and would be blessed after he had died, so that when his ministry should cease, the hymn could be used by God to help others. He placed his manuscript in the hands of a relative, and in six weeks he was dead; the hymn was "Abide with me." The Lord answered his prayer, and this is one of our favourite hymns; God has used it, for it is really a prayer, to the blessing of thousands of souls. Boys and girls, do you love the Lord Jesus Christ? I want you to say to Him to-day, "Lord Jesus, please come into my heart; come into my life; and stay with me always."

We were delighted to have with us again this year Mr. Bruce Flegg as our soloist and the songs rendered by him at each meeting were greatly appreciated by all.

SCRIPTURE EXAMINATION (1937)

- 44 children entered;
- 5 obtained prizes with honors;
- 2 First Class certificates with honors;
- 18 First Class certificates;
- 11 Second Class certificates;
- 8 failed.

The evening meeting commenced at seven o'clock on a note of praise and thanksgiving with the singing of the Doxology. Mr. Goddard led in prayer, bearing their testimony to God's goodness, and thanking Him for all that He had done through His servants. Various Scripture portions were repeated by the children. Then Mr. H. White took the friends on another "Hike" through the year. He said that when one had been engaged in a work under God for thirty-eight years it was somewhat difficult to decide what to say on such an occasion. He always liked to start off with a word of thanks to all those who had been their helpers. He was very glad to be under the chairmanship of Mr. James Stokes, one of their trustees, "Uncle Jim" as they liked to call him. He was always ready and willing to come to their assistance whenever called upon. They were also delighted to have the Rev. W. H. Rowden with them. It was a joy to have fellowship with a man who was so out and out for God. They welcomed also the Rev. Roland French, of Ipswich; it was his first visit. Mr. White went on to say that the work was founded by God in 1899. They started out with the object not merely of providing for children, but of proving God's faithfulness, so that they might have an up-to-date testimony to bear of the goodness and grace of God. Miss Hutchin and he, and later his wife, started with one child in two small rooms, with no money, no influence, no affluence, but with the desire to follow the dictates of God, and doing His will from the heart. And now at the end of thirty-eight years of service for the children they had proved that it was no vain thing to serve the Lord. At the founding of the work they promised God that they would seek for no help but from Himself; that if He answered their prayers they would go on with the work; that if He did not, they would stop. Christ said "Without Me, ye can do nothing." They were conscious of the fact that the work had gone on not because of them, but because of God. They had endeavoured to obey God along the line of service; He had answered their prayers for workers, for doctors, dentist, prayer partners; and they all shared in the work, and in the blessings that had been given. Mr. White said he was constantly hearing of those who were praying for the work, that those who were engaged in it might prove in these days of difficulty and declension that there is a God above Who cares, Who loves, Who lives, and Who longs to answer the prayers of His children. That did not mean that they were exempt from trouble. Troubles were sent in order that they might face them, and overcome them by His grace. As his dear daughter, who had passed from them, used to say, "I shall not go a minute before my time, or remain a minute after." They thanked God for those who were willing to leave their lives and their all in His hands, for Him to deal with. Mr. White said that he wanted the work of the Home to speak to the hearts of those who gathered reminding them that there was a God above, and a Saviour at the father's right hand, and the power of the Holy Spirit in the hearts of all believers, to help them in the pathway of service. They wanted through the work of the Home, Christ Himself to be glorified, and His Kingdom extended. They had had trials and difficulties, but God had been proving His word to be true, that He was not unmindful concerning their work and labour of love. They praised God for His many answers to prayer. That was their testimony up-to-date, and they wanted that testimony to be heard by all their friends and fellow-workers; and they prayed that God would use the work more and more for His own glory and His own purposes.

Mr. James Stokes, speaking from the chair, said: I always think Mr. White's Reports are very good. I would like to put it to this meeting that, God willing, at our next annual gatherings, Mr. White should have at least half an hour. We would like to hear from his lips some of the stories that he can tell us of wonderful answers to prayer. Because if you are like me, engaged in the commercial world, and having to battle with all kinds of difficulties, it is a great thing to have in mind some of these stories of God's faithfulness. The thought of this work has helped me time and time again. Very frequently I am asked as I go through the office, "How is your friend, So and So?" And when I ask them who they mean, they reply, "That orphan bloke." They do not say that with any feeling of discourtesy. To have this up-to-date story of the working of God in South Woodford is better than all the books on Theology you could get, and all the books published to defend the Scriptures. After all, the man in the street wants to see the goods. Well, here they are. Fish every week for twenty-one years! Think of that. The work was commenced by God in 1899—thirty-eight years ago; that is almost a lifetime. Mr. White has told us that the object they had in mind when they joined together to commence this work, by God's grace, was that they might seek to prove to those around that the promises of God could be relied on, and that the Gospel of Christ was an up-to-date Gospel. They commenced the work in a small way, but they are still going strong. It does prove that the Gospel of Christ, and the promises of God are still up-to-date. If you go over the past thirty-eight years, and think of the times they have gone through. The experiences of the great War; and then again the years of slump in business in 1929. Yet God proved Himself to be their stay. That is the reason why I like those words in the opening of the Epistle to the Hebrews. "God Who at sundry times and in divers manners spake in time past unto the fathers by the prophets hath in these last days spoken unto us by His Son." We are in "these last days" still. Yes the Gospel is always up-to-date; it is never behind the times. And we have had a refreshing reminder to-day of the promises of God being fulfilled. Thirty-eight years this work has been going on, and it has been my privilege to know Mr. White for nearly twenty-five years.

Do you know how we came to meet one another. In 1913 I lost my father, and it was a great blow to a young fellow, for he was a good Christian father. One day I happened to be wandering round Tower Hill, and various open-air meetings were being held; and then I spied the red banner of the Open Air Mission, and I went and stood amongst the crowd; and there was Mr. White, looking very much the same as he is to-day. He has learned the secret of perpetual youthfulness. "He that heareth my word, and believeth on Him that sent Me, hath everlasting life." Mr. White was there preaching the Gospel, and I stood in the crowd. Then he said, "Does any one in this crowd know what I am talking about?" and pointing at me, he said, "I wonder whether you would like to come up and say that you know." And we have been going on together now for nearly twenty-five years.

As I was thinking about this meeting to-night, I asked myself the question, "What really is the dynamic of this work?" It is perfectly true that God is the dynamic; but that is only one side of the picture. God's methods are always through men. When God wanted to save the world He chose the Man Christ Jesus. This work would never have started if it had not been that Herbert White, and Miss Hutchin, and later Mrs. White made a pledge to God, and to one another, to trust in the One Who was waiting to pour out a blessing greater than they had ever imagined. There are three characteristics which emerge from the readings of the Acts of the Apostles. There was unity of heart; there was prayerfulness; and there was expectancy. And those are the characteristics of the work here at Woodford. There was unity among that little band. They said, "We believe in God. His Word declares that if ye ask, I will do." They said, "We are going to put this to the test. We will take a child in faith, and trust Him for the supply of all our needs." One of the secrets of any success in Christian service is unity of heart. And these thirty-eight years has witnessed this unity of heart. They had no funds to fall back upon, if God had not answered their prayers; and there had to be constant vigilance; they had to keep constantly in touch with God. Then there was also prayerfulness of spirit. If you are looking for adventure; if you are out to make records, here is the undeniable secret—a record of God using the individual, and taking the humble faith of His servants, and translating it into magnificent achievements for His glory in this district. All God asks is that we should give all that we possess to Him. All mighty works for God have commenced in an attitude of prayer. Search the records of Christian history, and wherever there has been a mighty movement for God, the background has been prayer. There has been no revival which has not been preceded by definite prayer. Whatever I have been able to do for God is because Moody came to London, and my father was converted through his ministry; and his was a ministry of prayer. Then there was expectancy. As a result of expectancy the Holy Spirit came at Pentecost. They rose up every morning expecting something to happen. God was in this movement when it commenced thirty-eight years ago, and He is in it still. His servants have been living a life of expectancy. Things do happen when God is in the work. God is supreme in it; that is the dynamic of this work. He is beneath it, and around it; it has been unitedly, prayerfully and expectantly carried on for thirty-eight years.

The Rev. ROLAND FRENCH said: I have been wondering at the amazing courage of this man. He is a hiker. Now I am a biker. We are very glad and delighted that the work has gone on all these years. It is a blessed story of how God hears and answers prayer.

The 14th chapter of John's Gospel is a wonderful chapter—the chapter of comfort, as we like to call it. We have read it beside the bed of our dear, dying ones. We have read it when they have been coming back from the gates of death. We have read it in times of business trouble or domestic difficulty, and it has been a great inspiration to us. It is, perhaps, the favourite chapter of many of us in the whole Bible. Have you ever noticed what it says in the 12th verse: "Verily, verily—surely, surely—I say unto you, he that believeth on Me, the works that I do shall he do also; and greater works than these shall He do; because I go unto My Father." This is a solemn guarantee. Think of the questions that were asked by His disciples. Thomas did not know where he was going. Philip said, "Show us the Father, and we shall be satisfied." These men had had three years of the most amazing education in the most amazing college that ever was under the Lord of glory. But they were human like ourselves. We are such fumbleers that sometimes we feel almost in despair about ourselves. It is a Godlike work that we are engaged in; and our Master comes to us here with this great word of inspiration. He solemnly assures us that "the works that I do shall he do also." That does not refer, of course, to His sacrifice upon the Cross. We cannot touch His atoning work. "He trod the winepress alone, and of the people there were none with Him." But even there, just before He went to the Cross, and at the Cross itself, there might have been the co-operation of sympathy, such as He was denied, in the Garden of Gethsemane and at Calvary. We cannot co-operate with Him in His Resurrection work. That was unique. Never before, or since, has there been a man who has risen of himself from the dead. But we can say this, that our own resurrection is bound up in His. But says Jesus, "the works that I do the believer shall do also." Having taken human nature upon Him, having become man, He is determined to do more with your personality than He has ever done before. "The works that I do, he who utterly believes in Me shall do also." They had proved the truth of that; they had found that power divine was delegated to them. It made no difference their Master being in one village, and they in another. The power with which He worked in one village He gave to them in the other village. The very Son of God took upon Him a human body, and over against that unholy alliance of the devil and man He brings that holy alliance of Himself, and His trusting, believing disciple. He will use your personality as a human personality has never been used in the world before. Where were the disciples on the day of the crucifixion? "Were there not ten of us; but where are the nine?" Where were the healed ones? That is human nature still. That is why He came to work greater miracles. We can do works like His only by utter reliance upon Him. "He who utterly trusts Me, he shall do the same works that I do." Our brother would be utterly helpless if he lost his trust in the promises of God. Try to do this work in the power of the flesh, and it becomes an utter failure.

We had a Mission, and the place one night was packed; but to my amazement the evangelists's message just fell flat; there was no real appeal. I found out afterwards why it was. It appears that he had spent a jolly hour with a friend that afternoon, and had talked about all sorts of things; and he had come to the service in the evening, and there had been no proper preparation of heart; and the whole thing went down like a stone. We have got to know Him as the renewer. He declares that His disciples shall do greater works than He has done. The greatest work that Christ ever did on earth was to die for men and for their sins. "The Son of God Who loved me, and gave Himself up for me." That His greatest work made "these greater works" possible for them. They could not preach a crucified Christ until He was crucified. Then they went out, and preached, and healed and He delegated power to them. When He had accomplished the main thing for which He came, they went out with the main thing, they preached the Good News of His sacrifice for sin, and of His resurrection for man's justification. Many miracles had to be wrought before there could be the miracle of a new birth. He must be born into the world; He must go through our experiences; He must be tempted in all points like as we are; and He must come through the experience pure and unspotted. There must be the death of the Sin-Bearer, and the swallowing up of man's sin. What became of our sin? I believe it went down into that pit of God-forsakenness. He came up from the pit, and our sin was gone.

I remember as a young fellow stealing a boat one day, and I and a young boy went out for a row. We took with us those good things that boys like, ginger beer, and all the rest of it. But when we made our way home a wind sprang up; and the lad helped me all he could to row the boat back against the wind, but he was very little use. How we got home I cannot tell you; for we were both paralysed and tired. But our great Master is never tired. Those strong arms, how they pull; when we cannot do anything at all, He comes to our aid and saves us. "The Lord working with them." May He help us utterly to rely upon Him; for His power is just the same to-day as ever it was.

The Rev. W. H. ROWDEN gave the closing address. He said: I want to speak to you on those words in Deut. 32. 11. "As an eagle stirreth up her nest, fluttereth over her young, spreadeth abroad her wings, taketh them, beareth them on her wings; so the Lord alone did lead him, and there was no strange god with him." The eagle is undoubtedly the king of birds. The little I do know about the eagle makes me feel that I should like to be an eagle Christian to soar to the heights of Spiritual life and power and blessing that God has prepared for them that love Him; not, of course, for by own sake. How marvellous it would be if only we might be so useable in God's hands, that we might be swift in trying to do His bidding, and flying at His command. God meant us to be kings and priests by the power of His Holy Spirit. There are Christians to-day who are ashamed of His Word. But we know that the Word of God is sharp and powerful and it is because it cuts so deeply inwards that some of us rather shrink from wielding it.

The eagle is a great watcher; it has wonderful powers of vision; it can see almost microscopic things at a great distance. The eagle prefers the great heights. God meant that His children who have been washed in His blood, and filled with His divine power, should live lives far above all carnal and selfish motives, far above all the things of earth; recognising none of the narrow boundaries of earth, but seeing the world with its teeming millions through the eyes of Jesus Christ, Who whenever He saw a multitude was moved with compassion. It is when we have such a vision that we are able to rise up with Christ into the heavenly places. Yes, God intended us to be eagle Christians. "They shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run and not be weary; they shall walk, and not faint." Who are they? "They that wait upon the Lord." Some of us who would be eagles are still in the nest. Life without Christ is utterly meaningless. The life with Him is the life that is life indeed. God took away the soft lining of the nest when His Chosen People were in Egypt. It was like the eagle stirring up her nest. God breaks up the home life, the Church life; He takes away property; He removes loved ones; we are let down on the sharp thorns and sticks of trouble and suffering. We cannot move towards a life of purity unless we throw over all impurity of life; we cannot know the life of glorious freedom in Jesus Christ unless we turn away from the devil. "He breaks the power of cancelled sin, and sets the prisoner free." But it is a very unpleasant process for some of us. How we hate being disturbed! How frequently in His mercy when God has stirred up the nest, when He has taken away the soft lining from our lives, how sore we have felt about it! Then God begins to flutter over His own, and we hear the noise of His wings, and we begin to look up. The mother eagle seeks to take the attention of her young ones away from the thorns and the sticks that it may be concentrated upon herself. We have experienced in times of the greatest possible trouble and sorrow and affliction that God has been able to speak to us in a way that we should never have heard had He spoken to us under better conditions. Praise God if He has begun to stir up your nest that you may have the sunshine of His love in your soul. God flutters over our lives in order that we may take our eyes off our sorrow and trouble, that we may look away from the grave, from the deserted home, from the departed friends, from our earthly property, from human comfort, that we may look unto Jesus, the Author and Finisher of our faith.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS

A Few Letters from Old Boys and Girls

POTTERS BAR.—It is quite a long time since I saw you. Nine years ago last April since I left the dear old home for Canada and I have had quite a crowded life since then. I remember the hymns we used to sing—Pull for the Shore Sailor, Romans 10 and 9—Are your lamps burning bright, etc. My favourite one was Cheer up, Comrades. It had a swing with it. . . . I hope the Home is still doing the same glorious work as when I was there. I shall always call it my Home where ever I be. Please give my kind wishes and an orphans love to Miss Hutchin (she was a true mother to me) and to the sisters. I hope to see you soon and revive old memories Praying that God will bless you and the great work, from One of the fold.

This is my favourite chorus and when I feel lonely or depressed and long for the old Home this message cheers me. I remember you all daily at the Throne of Grace.—
With much love.

FROM AN OLD BOY WHO LEFT US OVER 20 YEARS AGO.—Very many thanks for a truly happy time with you all on Christmas Day. It was a wonderful experience and one I shall not soon forget. It brought memories crowding back again. So pleased to see that the Home has been so wonderfully blessed by God as the years have advanced, for you certainly have expanded. My very sincere wishes to you all and may God prosper you for 1937.

FROM AN OLD GIRL.—“I hope you are well. I am getting on nicely and have had a 2s rise. Can you arrange for me to be baptised as soon as possible for I want people to know I am out and out for Christ.

He will keep you from falling
He will keep you till the end
What a wonderful Saviour
What a wonderful friend.

FROM AN OLD BOY.—May I come down and spend Christmas with you. I have so enjoyed the past days and pray that God will continue to supply your needs. Thank you for all your kindness.

The City Men's Gospel Testimony continues on Friday between 12.30 p.m. and 2 p.m. on Tower Hill and prayer is asked that many more of God's people may support this meeting and be ready to help.

OUR FORWARD MOVE

For some time we have been praying that God would guide us respecting a Convalescent and Holiday centre and we have been lead to purchase a house known as "The Grove" Tiptree, for this purpose. It is a Georgian double fronted house in 7 acres of ground. Before we knew the price of same, four friends gave us for this purpose £1,250 which the vendors were ready to take. The premises are freehold and with a few alterations will meet our requirements. Thus we can record another deliverance at the Hand of God and we shall be glad if our friends will pray for guidance concerning this forward move.

Our Special Praise and Prayer Meeting is held in our Home the second Thursday in every month commencing at 3 p.m. Please book the date and come with friends.
