EDITORIAL NOTES.

Our first note is one of praise to our gracious God for the many deliverances and answers to prayer which He has been pleased to give and send during the past three months. Praise for spiritual blessing received, praise for physical blessings which we have enjoyed and praise to Him for supplying our temporal necessities. We join with the Psalmist who said, "O that men would praise the Lord for His goodness and for His wonderful works to the children of men." Spurgeon once said, "If we complained less and praised more we should be happier and God would be more glorified. Let us daily praise God for common mercies-common as we frequenly call them and yet so Let us bless God for priceless that when we are deprived of them we are ready to perish. the eyes with which we behold the sun, for the health and strength to walk abroad, for the bread we eat, for the raiment we wear. Let us praise Him that we are not cast out among the hopeless, or confined amongst the guilty; let us thank Him for liberty, for friends, for family associations and comforts; let us praise Him, in fact, for everything which we receive from His bounteous hand, for we deserve little, and yet are most plenteously endowed. But, beloved, the sweatest and the loudest note in our songs of praise should be of redeeming love. God's redeeming acts towards His chosen are for ever the favourite themes of their praise. If we know what redemption means let us not withhold our sonnets of thanksgiving. We have been redeemed from the power of our corruptions, uplifted from the depth of sin in which we were naturally plunged. We have been led to the Cross of Christ-our shackles of guilt have been broken off; we are no longer slaves but children of the living God, and can antidate the period when we shall be presented before the Throne without spot or wrinkle or any such thing. Even now by faith we wave the palm-branch and wrap ourselves about with the fair linen which is to be our everlasting array, and shall we not unceasingly give thanks to the Lord our Redeemer? Child of God, canst thou be silent? Awake, awake, ye heritors of glory, and lead your captivity captive, as ye cry with David, "Bless the Lord, O my soul: and all that is within me bless His holy name.

We heartily thank all our friends for allowing God to use them in supplying our needs and especially for the gifts they sent along at Christmas time. The children greatly appreciated what was done for them, and a most enjoyable time was spent.

We have received during the past quarter (November, December and January) £259 14s. $3\frac{1}{2}$ d., bringing the total up for the nine months to £524 13s. $0\frac{3}{4}$ d. For the same nine months last year we received £527 4s. 5d.

Please book Thursday, May 28th for our 14th Annual Meetings. Mrs Florence L, Barclay has again promised to speak. Full particulars will be sent later. Pray for blessing.

Friends desirous of seeing over the Home can do so any afternoon between 3 and 5 o'clock except Sundays and Mondays and children can le seen by their relatives and friends every Saturday between 6 and 8 p.m.

Will the box-holders kindly send the contents of their boxes on or before the 30th April, as that date closes our year, and we are anxious to include the same in our Annual Statement.

We regret very much to report that our friend and supporter, Mr. George White (my Uncle), of Bush Hill Park, went to his eternal rest on the 21st November last. Some of our friends will remember he took the chair in the evening at our ninth Annual Meeting, and his helpful words are still fresh in some of our memories. He said that the history of the Home had been Trust in God all along the line and that had been the secret of its success. He hoped those who sympathised with the work would not let their sympathy evaporate uselessly, but would see that it crystalised in a practical way to help on the work. This makes the fifth friend we have lost during the past year.

I have had the pleasure of either conducting or speaking at meetings in Woodford, Stoke Newington, East Coast of Scotland, Tower Hill, Anstey, Walthamstow, Hampton Hill, Twickenham, Great Hormead, High Wycombe, Chingford, Puckeridge, and the Word has proved to be the Power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth.

I think our readers will agree with me in looking through what has come in during the past month that our gracious Master has not been unmindful of those who put their trust in Him. We started the month in great need and could see that we should require at least £150 to meet all our liabilities by the close of the year and for which amount we gave ourselves to prayer. £100 came in from many sources up to the 26th and then our blessed Lord graciously touched the heart of His child to send the cheque for £50. We received in December £161 or £11 more than we prayed for which enabled us to close the old year by meeting every liability and to start the new with a little in hand.

> We believe Thy gracious promise, Thine ever faithful Word. As we look to Thee-Thee only-Our ever conquering Lord! We can never be forgotten, To Thee our need is known; And Thou wilt supply it fully—

ANSWERED PRAYER.

An Address delivered by the Rev. E. Hurditch, of Buckhuast Hill, at the Thirteenth Anniversary of the Home.

Dear Children and dear friends, I feel at a oss as to what to say to-night after hearing such a good report from Mr. White, how the Lord hath blessed him, and multiplied his store, and increased his family, enlarging his heart and giving him success. By the way, may I say that he takes a very high stand, and that stand is to believe God and to expect from God, and if God fails-but God cannot fail,-but if He failed it would show that he was not right somehow or other, but altogether wrong. But the man who stands out for God and believes in God, is the man that shall have victory at last, though he may have had comparatively a non-successful career, yet the blossom will come, and the sweet roses will be perfumed to the glory of God. We do pray that God may establish our brother in the faith. By the way, an old Cornishman, a farmer who was a Primitive Methodist, prayed on his farm for his son, Charlie, that he might be converted to God, and when he prayed he always shouted. He went on praying and by-and-by a missioner came to the village, and the old man asked Charlie if he would go and hear the missioner. Charlie said, yes, he would. The father could not go, but Charlie went. and the spirit of God came upon the message. He tell down on his knees and cried for mercy, He selt the glow of the Holy Spirit, and the tears were rolling down his cheeks. "Hallelujah, I have got Him, said Charlie. He had got "Him," and that is better than "it." If I had only got "it," I should have been the greatest infidel that ever trod Buckhurst Hill roads to-day, but knowing that I have got a living Person in the living Christ. I can laugh at impossibilities, and laugh when fear comes. Charlie went home whistling between his teeth and singing, and when he got into the kitchen he said, "Father, hallelujah, I am saved! I am saved!" And the old father looked up and said, "Oh, Charlie, I am very pleased that you are saved, but you know, when you get established like I am, you won't make so much noise about it. Be stable, my boy." A few days afterwards, the father said, "Charlie, I want you to take the grey mare and put her in the cart and go up and fetch those turnips from the field." It had been raining for a fortnight, and the roads were very soft. But Charlie filled the cart with turnips, but when he came to start the grey mare would not budge. So he thought the best thing would be to take the grey mare out and fetch another horse that was in the stable. When he got there his father was at the door, and he said, "Charlie I thought I told you to take the grey mare and fetch those turnips." "Well, I did," said Charlie, "but the cart is established," "What do you mean, Charlie, by the cart being established?" "Why, stuck in the mud, father," he replied. Well, I do not believe our dear friend, Mr. White, and his good wife are struck in the mud, but they are getting established, and the right sort of establishment too. It is a great privilege for me to be here to-day. This is my first appearance, and I hope it won't by my last: I am much interested in the good work that is being carried on through our good brother and his wife and helpers, and if it is any good at all, he has our prayers every morning. He has not got our money, because we have none to give. We are as poor as Church mice around there at Buckhurst Hill, but we look to the Lord and he supplies our needs. But we can help one another, though we have not the f s. d. We can help one another by prayer. Our good friend said, "Come and give us a word of cheer." Sometimes I feel that I want cheering up myself. 1 was with a lady in a drawing room at one time reading, and the fire was going out, so I ventured to take her poker and was about to stir the fire. She said, "Mr. Hurditch, do not use that poker, that is a drawing room poker." I beg your pardon, madam," I said, and put it down quickly. "You will see a little poker by the side," she said, " you can use that one for the fire, but the other is more for ornament." There are a great many people that are drawing room pokers, more fit for ornament than for real work. Oh friends, it is a day for work, but it is also a day for prayer. I believe that dear Mr. White and his cohelders have realized what it means to have the art of prayer. We shall all have heart in prayer. There is no prayer that is answered of God but that which comes from the heart. But there is a great art in prayer. It is not everyone that mutters out words that gets those words answered, and we must not suppose that God is not a hearer and answerer of prayer because these petitions are not answered. But if a man by faith believes that God is, and God is the hearer and answerer of prayer, and he commits definitely to Him a certain matter, I say that that man is sure to have the answer to his prayer. It is a wonderful thing to realise this. Now what is the heart in prayer? Asapp in one of the Psalms uses these words, "Have respect unto the covenant," and it seems to have the very heart of prayer. What does he mean? He means to have respect to the promises, that cannot be altered. May I give you something from my own personal experience. I want to speak to you about answered prayer. You need not trouble, my brother, if money does not come in one way it will come in another, if friends slip out of one door other friends will come in the next. "As thy faith be it unto thee." I had a brother, a godly fellow, whose name was Russell Hurditch. He passed into the glory some four years ago. I was the youngest of the family, living in a little town called Ilfracombe in the North of Devon, My brother was treasurer of the Stafford Rooms branch of the Y.M.C.A. in Titchborne Street, off the Edgware Road. A letter came to him from my mother, a godly woman, saying that she was almost broken-hearted, for she had made up the bed for Edward (that was I) and he had never slept in it for a week. "He is taking his fling, and he is going to hell," she said. My brother was very much impressed with this letter, and after the meeting on the Friday night he asked if there were a few young men there who would stay behind, as he wanted to have a talk with Ten of them remained after the meeting was over, and he read them the letter. He said, "My mother is in great distress about my young brother. Do you believe that God will answer prayer?" 'Yes, yes, yes!" the ten of them said. " If we pray to-night for his conversion, do you believe that God will answer this prayer? "Yes!" and he had the answer from the ten of them individually. If there had been eleven of them, and one had said, " No, he did not believe it," he would have asked them to retire, but the ten of them said "Yes." was two hundred miles away, and at halfpast nine they began to pray. I was then with my companions playing cards, and having lost the last shilling I had, I thought I would go home. Ten o'clock came, and I was on my way. Thunder and lightning flashed and roared, and I felt in an awful These were my thoughts: If condition. this were the last day, where would my soul be? At Titchborne Street they were praying "Lord, save my brother." I felt as if I were positively tumbling Into the caverns of an awful hell. It was raining in torrents, but I fell on my knees in the open street, I got down upon my face and hands, I groaned, I cried "Lord, save me! Save me! Have mercy!" At half-past ten, there in the mud, in the open street, soaked with rain, I knelt, and a voice came, and this is what I heard, "Son, go thy way, thy sins are all forgiven; go in peace." I cannot tell you where that is in the Book, but it came to me, I believed it, and I danced with holy joy. What was it that stole into my soul? Life. How did it come there? By prayer two hundred odd miles away as they were pleading for my conversion. I reached home at eleven o'clock, opened the front door, went into the breakfast room, and saw my dear mother weeping about me. After a little conversation, I said, " Mother! my sins are all forgiven." "Nonsense," she said. "They are," I said, "down at the bottom of the hill my soul was set at liberty, and I have peace with God." The dear old soul hugged me the neck, and my arms were around her, and we praised God together. I went to bed, but could not sleep. At three o'clock I wrote a letter to mh brother, saying, "Dear Russell, you would like to hear that I accepted Christ down on my knees last night at half-past ten." And at that very moment, at half-past ten, one of the young men in that little prayer meeting was saying, "We have got him! We have got him!" and my brother was responding "Amen! Amen!" That is nearly 45 years ago, Hallelujah! I have got Him still. He comes to heal the broken heart. He sets the captive free, He binds together a people that shall unitedly praise Him. I pray that God may speedily come and give to the workers among these children in the Home His greatest benediction, "Well done, good and faithful servant." The art of prayer is giving God what He has said back again. You have the promise, now fulfil it. Say "No covenant-making God can break the covenant." Therefore in the name of the Lord Jesus I pray thee come. May the Lord richly bless our brother, and his dear wife, and his dear helpers. May you find that even in your struggles it is the way to the mountains of power and victory, may you find in the darkest day that there is a silver
